Stefan loves cars. Even at the age of five he already knew almost all makes of cars. There is only one wish he has for his future: He wants to become a car mechanic. That's why he made use of every possibility to gain experience in repairing cars. He already did an internship at a garage and after that, he worked at this garage during his holidays. Stefan's favourite cars are British ones, especially Aston Martins. For this reason, he applied for an internship at Mr Brown's garage. Due to his experience, he got the job and is now very happy and proud. Mr Brown's garage is in Germany, but he and his mechanics specialise in British cars. They repair, rebuild and restore British veteran and vintage cars.

1 As Mr Brown's garage has many British customers, Stefan wants to refresh his technical vocabulary. Find the correct translations. Write down the words.

3 Today, Stefan assisted a mechanic with the car maintenance of Mr Fletcher's MG. He is an English customer. When Mr Fletcher comes to pick up his car, Stefan tells him what had to be done. Read the dialogue and try to fill in the missing words. Do you need help? Look into the box at the bottom of the page.

Stefan: We are done with your MG, Mr Fletcher.

Mr F.: Oh, great. Was there a lot to do?

Stefan: Well, here is your service _____. We changed the oil and the _____. The spark plugs are OK, as well as the brakes.

Mr F.: That sounds good.

Stefan: But the _____ aren't in good condition.

Mr F.: Yes, I know. But I will change them soon. The summer tyres are still OK.

Stefan: We also _____ the exhaust gases. They were OK. The radiator needed more _____, so we filled some in. Your battery is still new and works very well.

Mr F.: Yes, we renewed it last time.

Stefan: When we tested the _____ we found out that the right headlights didn't work. So we put in new headlight _____. The total cost of this service is 210 Euro.

Mr F.: That's fine. Here is my credit card. It's good to know that the car is still roadworthy.

Stefan: Yes, this is a great car. It's still as good as new. Would you like to order new _____ now or do you prefer waiting until next autumn?

Mr F.: Let's wait. I don't want to put them in my car port during summer.

Stefan: Fine. Just give us a call when you need something. And have a nice weekend.

Mr F.: You too, thank you! Bye!
